Giving

I give of my financial resources in proportion to my income, and am working toward giving 10% or beyond.

First Steps

Take the first dollar from your pay check and give it to God. Sacrifice one meal that you would eat out during the week, and give the money to the church or a local mission. Look over your personal budget and determine the percentage that goes to the church or charity.

Next Steps

Financial Peace University is a 12-week course designed for people of all income levels and stages of life. It is offered in January each year. If you are unable to take FPU, then make an effort this year to increase your giving to the church by 1-2% of your income.

Continuing

The Biblical and historical standard of giving to the church is a tithe, 10% of one's income. Set a tithe as your goal and begin working toward it. Along the way, be open to extra-mile giving as needs or special opportunities present themselves.
